

dr hab. inż. Jarosław Janus

University of Agriculture in Krakow

Faculty Of Environmental Engineering And Land Surveying

Department of Agricultural Land Surveying, Cadastre and Photogrammetry

Since 2004 he is a researcher at the University of Agriculture in Krakow in Department of Agricultural Land Surveying, Cadastre and Photogrammetry (Faculty Of Environmental Engineering And Land Surveying), currently as an Assistant Professor. His main research areas are:

- analyzing the impact of linear investments on the land spatial structure,
- land fragmentation aspects in developing of rural areas,
- optimization problem in land consolidation,
- evaluation of the effects of land consolidation.

He is a surveyor with experience in the implementation of many land consolidation projects carried out in southern Poland. Co-author of the software to support land consolidation process, used in many regions in Poland. He taught classes in the following areas: theory and practice of land consolidation, Geographic Information System, relational databases and SQL language. Author and co-author of over seventy research papers and two monographs. Reviewer in the three scientific journals. Member of Polish Association of the Development of Rural Areas and Polish Association of Infrastructure and Ecology of Rural Areas.